Just A Bad Day?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm ashamed to talk to my minister about this and my doctor won't take my problem seriously. When I tried to discuss it with him on two occasions he gave me some sample envelopes of tranquilizers and said, "Try these. All mothers go through this when their children are little."

My children are 2½ and 4½ years old. They are driving me crazy. Every morning I resolve to be pleasant and gentle with them. By noon I am shrieking my head off and punishing at every turn. By nightfall I am praying again. "Dear God, please forgive me for being so impatient with my children."

Why must children test their mothers to the limit of their tolerance? Do they ever learn to do as they are told the first time? I've read that youngsters love to please their parents. I don't believe it. Mine have received a great deal more love and attention than most, yet they seem determined to ignore me and do as they please.

Sometimes I don't think I'll make it through the next three years, when they both will be in school. Can you say something that will help me keep my sanity? Please try. — FALLING APART

Dear Falling: Every mother has bad days and such days should be expected. But if you are having weeks and months of frustration, screaming and punishing followed by guilt feelings and periods of depression, you need outside help. Tranquilizers are no answer.

Many cities have counseling programs offered through mental health clinics. Some are free, others charge a nominal fee. Write to the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's son, Tex, is going into the service next month. He and his wife have been married less than six months. A family dispute has arisen over where Tex's wife should stay. She cannot afford to keep the apartment.

The girl is 17 and has less sense than my Angora cat. She wants to move in with a girl friend whose husband left for Vietnam two months ago.

I say the child belongs with her parents. Also, wouldn't it be a good idea if she went back to high school and got a little more education? Please don't tell me to M.Y.O.B. Tex's mother is a widow and she has asked for my advice. I told her I was no Ann Landers but I offered to write for your opinion. Please help. — STUMPED.

Dear Stumped: Of course the girl would be better off with her parents and it would be a good idea if she returned to school, but she's a married woman now (even though your cat has more sense) and nobody can tell her what to do. Suggest it (in a low key manner) and hope she listens.

Confidential to Will He Or Won't He?: My guess is he won't. Why should he? The sample was ample.

Ann Landers' new book, "Truth Is Stranger," is available at your bookstore. Price — $4.95. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Press-Herald enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (C) 1968, Publishers-Hall Syndicate
